K-8 finish date just 3 months away

July 18 is the substantial completion day for the Warm Springs K-8 Academy. Many of the rooms, plus the gymnasium, are already painted.

Community members made a tour of the buildings last week. "I think it's looking great," said Urbana Ross, advocate of the K-8 project.

"The materials they're using are top quality, and the rooms are large," she said.

During the tour, school board member Laurie Danzuka explained details such as where the buses will enter, where parents can drop off the kids, and the locations of the classrooms for the different grade levels.

The buses will arrive off Tenino. They can proceed toward the back area of the school, and drop kids off by the commons area for breakfast. The commons is the large area toward the back of the building complex.

The main building area is 80,000 square feet in size. The new school will have a projected enrollment of more 720 students: A little over 250 will be middle school students, and over 470 will be in grades k-5.

After the construction work is done in July, the contractor brings in a cleaning company to go over all the rooms, cleaning everything. Landscaping and work on the sports fields are other aspects for the coming months.

Once everything is complete, the building will be turned over to the school district for operation.

The month of August will be an especially busy time, when the teachers and other staff move in to the new school, said Glenna DeSouza, Warm Springs Academy principal.

In other recent school news, the Confederated Tribes last week hosted the conference of the Oregon Indian Education Association.

Mobile clinic gearing up

Health workers recently visited Fire Management in the tribes' mobile clinic. They provided physicals for some of the fire fighters, and are planning another visit for more fire-fighter physicals as the season approaches.

These trips, and earlier flu-shot clinics, also provide an opportunity to work out all of the details involved in operating the clinic.

The next step is for the clinic to make a trip to the Simnasho community, scheduled for May, said Tammy Wilson, Community Health director.

The tribes acquired the mobile clinic last year through a grant. This is a project of the Community Health Program, the Joint Health Commission, tribal Health and Human Services and the Indian Health Service.

When fully operational, the mobile clinic will provide medical and dental services. The facility is needed to serve tribal members, especially elders, who live away from the clinic, such as at Simnasho, Seekseequa and Sidwalter.

Simnasho water system at end of June

The Simnasho Schoolie-Flat safe-drinking water project is getting closer to completion. The estimate now is for completion in late June, said Travis Wells, tribal engineer.

The Simnasho-Schoolie Flat water project, costing about $2 million, will bring safe drinking water from a well near Highway 26 to the residents in the Simnasho-Schoolie Flat communities.

The well is located about five and half miles from Simnasho. Building the pipeline from the well to Simnasho was a large piece of the project, along with the pumphouse at the well site.

Need for the new system first came to light eight years ago, when testing showed the arsenic level in the Simnasho-Schoolie Flat domestic water was above Environmental Protection Agency regulation.

Finding the necessary funding took some time. In the end the tribes contributed several hundred thousand dollars, matched by the EPA, Housing and Urban Development, and Indian Health Service funding.

An added cost to the tribe has been the regular delivery of Earth2o bottled water to the Simnasho-Schoolie Flat residents since the 2008 finding. This will end this summer, when the new system comes on line.

Construction of the system has taken about a year.

Tribal farm ready for new growing season

The tribal farm is entering its second growing season. Both areas of the farm—the middle Warm Springs, and the Moody property—will have crops this year. Last year just the middle Warm Springs was ready in time for growing.

Zane Wilson and Stuart Paul this month have been preparing the ground and planting the next crops.

They planted Belford beardless barley hay at the middle Warm Springs and the Moody farms. The harvest will be in late June or early July, followed by a planting of alfalfa.

Wilson is the farm manager. As of last week he had Paul working with him. Paul has about six years of farming experience.

Wilson said more help will be needed during the season, especially from people with some experience at farming and using the tractor.

The middle Warm Springs farm is about 105 acres, located by the Warm Springs River by the Culpus Bridge. The Moody farm is 350 acres in size, though only part of this will be farmed this year, Wilson said.

The middle Warm Springs farm is irrigated by one large pivot; and the Moody farm by a number of smaller pivots, because of the configuration of the irrigable land.

The pivots use water from the nearby Warm Springs River. Wasco Electric installed the power lines for the Moody pivots earlier this month; so that property is also ready for the growing season.

The two areas were farmed some years ago. The Natural Resources Branch began reclaiming them as farmland last year.

The initial funding came from the restoration settlement. The goal is establish the farm as self-sustaining operations, said Jason Smith, Range and Ag manager.

Some of the initial work included removing rocks from the soil, and setting up the irrigation systems.

Tax team program helpful to many

The Warm Springs Community Action Team helped hundreds of local residents complete their 2013 tax returns.

This volunteer effort helped the residents collect a total of hundreds of thousands of dollars in refunds.

The refund total was at $260,000 at the end of March. The final refund figure, and the total number of returns filed through the Community Action Team program, will be available soon.

Lonny James, team director, said the program this year relied on just one volunteer, Clint Jacks. Last year there were four volunteers, so Clint and Lonny stayed very busy this tax season.

The American Association of Retired Persons helped with expenses, and the Community Action Team provided

Winning Spirits opening this month at the museum

The Museum at Warm Springs later this month will open Winning Spirits: Native American Youth and Athletics.

This exhibit will highlight the challenges and accomplishments of Native American athletes. Some of these include Jacoby Ellsbury, Shoni and Jude Schimmel, Billy Mills, among others.

The Winning Spirits exhibit will also feature items from community members including historic old tournament pictures, jerseys, shoes, balls and similar sports items.

U of O president talks higher ed with tribes

The president of the University of Oregon visited Warm Springs last month, briefing Tribal Council on a major change happening in the state university system.

The relationship of the state to some of the universities is changing dramatically, said Michael Gottfredson, president of the university since mid 2012.

Last year the Oregon Legislature passed a law providing the University of Oregon, Oregon State University, and Portland State University with authority to establish their own governing boards.

In the past these universities, and the four other public universities in the state, have been governed by the Oregon State Board of Higher Education. The single governing board model had been in existence since 1929.

Over time, the state has reduced the amount of funding it provides to the universities, Gottfredson said. Twenty-five years ago, the state provided 40 percent of funding for the public universities. The percentage now is at around 5 percent.

Even just seven years ago, he said, the state provided $30 million more per year than in the current year.

With the loss of state funding, the universities rely more on student fees, and some federal programs. The federal support, Gottfredson said, is now much larger than that of the state.

This radical shift in funding warranted a change in the governing structure, he said. The solution is a board of trustees for just the University of Oregon, one for Oregon State, and one for Portland State.

These governing boards come in to authority on July 1 of this year. The governing boards are not state agencies, but instead are independent. They will have power to borrow money through bonds, and purchase land, for instance.

The goals of the university—the broadest possible access to the best possible quality education— remain the same, and can be better met through the new board system, Gottfredson said.

The loss of state funding has put more of a burden on the students. Which raises the question of just how public are public universities? he said.

Tribal Council members asked about the recruiting and retention programs for Native American students at the university.

This has been a strong point and a priority at the university, Gottfredson said.

Frank Brunoe, Central Oregon Community College student, said he would like to see a stronger University of Oregon presence in the region. Councilman Kahseuss Jackson said that Oregon State has a fairly strong presence in Central Oregon in comparison.

Jackson said the tribes and the University of Oregon have a long history of working together, and hopes this continues as the reservation economy is in transition. He mentioned his grandfather Vernon Jackson was the first tribal member to graduate college, and he went to the University of Oregon.

Wasco Chief JR Smith congratulated the university representatives on recent U of O track and field victories: In March both the men and women's teams were crowned NCAA indoor champions, a rare and historic accomplishment.

Building renovation for new Re-Use It location

The Re-Use It shop is moving to a new location—the building located between the Warm Springs Market and the post office.

Diana and Terry Macy, owners of the Warm Springs Market and Re-Use It, are totally renovating the building. There is new paneling outside, a front porch, and new coats of paint inside.

When Re-Use It opens in the new location this summer,

the business will feature the thrift store plus a coffee shop area toward the back. Terry's brother Colby Statchwick is the manager of Re-Use It.

The shop offers all kinds of thrift store items, including furniture, clothing, toys, jewelry and kitchen-ware, among many items.

At its new location Re-Use It will be more visible to the public, with better parking. There will be more space, as the ceiling is higher, allowing for more shelving, said Terry.

The Re-Use It coffee shop will offer espresso and other coffees, ice cream and some baked goods. "There will be specialty foods that we don't offer at the market," said Diana.

She and Terry have owned the Warm Springs Market and Re-Use It since 2010. They bought the market from Bobby and Maria Macy, who had taken over from Bobby's brother Jimmy and his wife Luana.

The store has been in the Macy family since 1944, when Dan Macy and wife Priscilla first owned and operated the market.

The Warm Springs Market is celebrating its Seventieth Anniversary this year, with special events planned in the coming months.

Massey market

The building that is being remodeled for the new Re-Use It location has been vacant, or used mostly for storage, for several years now. Some time ago it was a teen center, and a sporting goods store.

At one point it was a market with the name of Massey, no relation to Macy.

There was competition between the two stores to serve also as the post office, and Dan Macy won the competition, said Diana.

At that point the Macys bought out the Massey market, which has passed down along with the market to the present time.

From VFW District Commander

Dear Warm Springs community and Tribal Council,

My name is John Wrinkle, and I am the Veterans of Foreign Wars District 10 Commander. It is my honor to serve the six Posts in Central Oregon. Your Elliot Palmer Post 4217 is one of the posts I have the privilege to work with.

My primary mission is to provide guidance in conforming to the National VFW Bylaws, and the Department of Oregon's goals.

A very important part of our mission is working in our community with our VFW programs that include various youth activities, including scholarships, Teacher of the Year, safety, National Military Services (a program designed to help actively deployed veterans and their families), VFW National Home for Children, and last but not least, providing assistance to needy veterans and their families.

It is my pleasure to inform you that Post 4217, and its Ladies Auxiliary, stepped up and provided an outstanding venue in the Long House for our District 10 meeting in January.

The Ladies Auxiliary members outdid themselves by providing the traditional meal of salmon, potatoes, noodles, salad and roe. I greatly appreciated the explanation of why it is important to start and finish the meal with a drink of water.

We opened ceremonies with a ceremonial drummer/singer, as the ceremonial staff led us into the hall where we posted the colors. It is no wonder attendance is very healthy at this District meeting.

I personally want to thank Elliot Palmer Post 4217's Junior Vice Commander Tamera Coffee, Adjutant Gerald Danzuka, Service Officer Keith Baker and Ladies Auxiliary President Leminnie Smith for their hard work in coordinating our meeting. There were many more who worked in the kitchen, but regrettably I do not know their names.

On a more serious note, the Elliot Palmer Post 4217 is currently working hard to stabilize the Post. With your continued support, I am optimistic that the Post is going to come out of this and be as strong as it was when the original WWII charter members founded the Post.

We need to be patient and allow the membership to grow. There are many young combat veterans on the Warm Springs Reservation who will come forward once the word gets out that the Post is working for veterans and their families in your community. I pledge to do my best to assist Elliot Palmer Post 4217 in maintaining its leadership role as a combat veterans' (Warrior) organization on the Warm Springs Reservation.

If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to call me at 541-678-3895 or email me at wrinkle4108@gmail.com.

Yours in Comradeship,
John R. Wrinkle,
VFW District 10 Commander

Indian Business Talk

Raising a successful businessperson

By Bruce Engle
Loan officer
W.S. Credit Enterprise

If you spend money, you are a businessperson and a businessperson's delight. Who taught you?

If you make money, as an owner or an employee, you are cherished—by family, sales people, and those who would like to borrow from you. Who taught you?

When you pay your bills on time, you are loved by your creditors. Who taught you?

If you save money, you are on the way to financial success. Who taught you?

A song says, "Money makes the world go around." That's cute, but misleading. It forgets people.

People make the world go round. And people make, raise and train more people who do all the above and keep the party and the circle going.

Parents are a child's first and most influential examples of managing their financial lives. Extended family and friends come next. Then we have teachers, bosses and friends.

Some of them become role models. Who taught them?

Most of us can name our role models, and we can state what we learned from them. Sometimes we learned by just listening or watching. Other times, we may have learned by doing what they made us do.

Responsibility is an early lesson. Rewards help make the performance and responsibility lessons palatable. Kids and pets respond well to rewards.

A trip to the ice cream store might reward chores done well. Remember, chocolate is not good for dogs. This child loves chocolate.

Was there a goal in there somewhere? Yours might have been the job well done and the responsibility lesson learned. Theirs might have been the reward. Both are OK.

Goal setting can be learned young. Short term goal setting comes first. Think six months or less.

Achievement begets a mind-set that helps make long term goal setting and accomplishments not to be such daunting tasks.

Lots of family goal settings and realizations of goals accomplished—sometimes followed by a celebration and other rewards—can strengthen each member of the family and the family as a unit.

Parents, it helps to share financial—buying, selling, saving, and investing—experiences with your children. You might be surprised by how savvy they can be when you take the time to tell them the reasons for those buying, selling, saving, and investing decisions.

Discuss what worked and why and what didn't—and why not.

If you don't know the whys, ask someone. Be respectful and sincere, and you will be surprised by how willing successful people are to help. All they usually need is someone they believe is interested and will benefit.

Consider coaches and athletes. When they work well together, both develop and succeed. That takes a committed coach and a willing athlete—both, willing to learn and to do.

Coaches take pride in the outcomes. So do the athletes.

Mentors in the business world do the same. Who taught them?

Building a successful business is similar to building a successful life. The same principles apply.

"Preparation is everything" is one of those.

Who taught us?

Who are we teaching?

Who will we teach?

Gas vouchers help with medical travel

As a tribal member, you may be eligible for a medical gas voucher. This program helps with expenses related to travel for health care services.

You must meet the following requirements:

Be a member of the Confederated Tribes of Warm Springs, and referred by a medical provider at Indian Health Services.

Submit verification of appointment with a referral provided from the IHS Medical Records Office three days prior to the appointment, unless the appointment is the same day.

We can provide assistance for Priority 1 cases. This status is determined by your medical provider.

Provide documentation from the tribal Community Health Representative program that you do not meet their transportation requirements.

An appointment verification form will be given, and must be returned by fax or in person within three days of appointment. (This must be signed off by the providers office).

The dollar amounts for vouchers are based on where the medical appointment is.

All drivers must show proof of drivers license.

Priorities will be given to all dialysis and cancer patients who cannot be transported by the CHR program.

For information call 541-553-4952.

Cheryl Tom, Social Services, program manager.

Heart Health luncheons

The Community Health Education Team will offer Heart Health education on Thursdays starting on April 24, and going through May.

The gatherings are from noon to 1 p.m. in the large conference room at the Family Resource Center. Lunch will be provided.

Space is limited to 20 people. For more information call Judy at 541-553-2211.

The course is based on a 10-week curriculum, condensed in a booklet for easy reading from Honoring the Gift of Heart Health for American Indians.

Counseling hosts Talking Circles

The Warm Springs Community Counseling Center is hosting the Talking Circle for tribal members who are facing unemployment. This is a chance to build a support system and gain information on resources for tribal members facing unemployment.

The Talking Circle is downstairs at Warm Springs Community Counseling on Friday, April 25 from 11 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. For more information call Annie Kalama at 541-553-3205. Meal and care baskets are provided. (No child care available.)

Tribal Council seeking applicants for board positions

The Tribal Council of the Confederated Tribes of Warm Springs Reservation of Oregon, would like to advertise the following board positions.

For each position: Letters of Interest and resumes of applicants interested in serving on the Board of Director should be submitted to the following address by no later than May 7, 2014:

Jake Suppah, Secretary-Treasurer/CEO
P.O. Box 455
Warm Springs, OR 97761

An authorization letter will be mailed to each applicant for a criminal and credit background check to be completed and returned to Secretary-Treasurer's office. Information will be submitted confidentially to the Secretary-Treasurer. The following board positions are being advertised:

Warm Springs Credit Board of Directors.

Two Class II board members. One director will be an enrolled member of the Tribes. The other Class II director shall be a non member interested in the social and economic development of the Tribes, and who has expertise in the field of credit or related professions. The class II director shall have an initial term in office expiring January 1, 2017 or until their successors are appointed and take office.

Members of the Board of Directors must have a reputation for industry, dependability, honesty, and integrity. It shall be an initial and continuing qualification for members of the Board of Directors that they have no loan with the Tribes that is in a delinquent status.

The business and affairs of the Enterprise shall be managed and controlled by the Board of Directors.

Regular Meetings. Regular meetings of the Board of Directors shall be held quarterly for the purpose of reviewing the preceding three months' operations, making plans for the ensuing three months' operations, and the transaction of such other business as may come before this meeting. The first regular meeting in each fiscal year shall also be the annual meeting of the Board of Directors. The Board of Directors shall review the preceding year's operations, elect officers and transact such other business as may come before the meeting. The regular meetings shall be held at the time and place specified by the President of the Board in the notice of the meeting. If the day fixed for a regular meeting falls on a legal holiday in the State of Oregon, or is otherwise inconvenient or unsatisfactory in the opinion of the Board of Directors, or the President of the Board, the Board of Directors or the President of the Board may fix another date in lieu of the regularly scheduled meeting date.

Special Meetings. Special meetings of the Board of Directors may be called by the President of the Board or any three members of the Board of Directors. Meetings shall be held at the time and place specified by the person or persons calling such meeting.

Election Board: One position vacant, and one alternate.

All members of the Election Board shall be members of the Confederated Tribes of the Warm Springs Reservation of Oregon, and shall not be appointed to such positions in an election where they are a candidate for election or where they may personally have an interest in the election different from the interests of the membership at large.

Duties of Election Boards. It shall be the duty of the election board to supervise the election at the voting place where they are designated to serve. The Chief Statistician shall furnish to the election board an up to date voter list showing the district in which each of the voters is entitled to vote and insofar as the election board is concerned such voter list shall be final. The election board shall insure that all persons whose names are shown on the voter list shall have an opportunity to vote in the district where they are registered and that no persons whose names are not on the voting list for that district shall vote.

The Tribal Council shall establish the date of election, the voting places and the hours during which the polls shall be open. The Tribal Council shall furnish ballots to the election boards and the election boards shall guarantee that all registered voters have the opportunity to vote a secret ballot. Decisions on all dispute shall be decided by the election board assigned to the particular voting place and such decision shall be final.

Water Board: Two positions.

The Tribal Council has the responsibility for managing the water resource of the reservation through the Reservation Water Management Plan. To implement this plan the Council relies on the Water Board, consisting of three members.

The primary function of the board will be to review all matters pertaining to the water resource to make recommendations to the Tribal Council in regards to making the Water Management Plan function and to propose changes or improvements in water policy and the plan.

The Water Control Board will be concerned with all activities occurring in the watershed areas on the Reservation. Before an activity is initiated all plans will be submitted to the Board for their recommendations to the Tribal Council to ensure that neither water quality or quantity is impaired.

One position term ending: 10/30/15.

One position term ending: 10/30/16.

Warm Springs Local Housing Authority Board of Commissioners: Four positions.

The Tribal Housing Authority is the body established to develop policies and procedures relating to Tribal housing, to give direction to the Housing Manager and Housing Department, and make recommendations to the Tribal Council regarding housing matters.

(a) The affairs of the Authority shall be managed by a Board of Commissioners composed of seven persons.

Purpose: The Tribal Housing Authority shall be organized and operated for the purposes of:

(a) Remediating on the Reservation unsafe or unsanitary housing conditions, that are public nuisances or hazardous to the public health.

(b) Alleviating the acute shortage of decent, safe and sanitary dwellings for families of low income;

(c) Providing employment opportunities on the Reservation through the construction, reconstruction, improvement, extension, alteration or repair and operation of dwellings.

(d) To develop policy and give direction regarding Tribal Housing matters. The policies established will apply uniformly to all housing on the Reservation, whether financed by the Department of Housing and Urban Development or otherwise, except as specifically noted in the Housing Code.

Warm Springs Power and Water Enterprise Board of Directors: Three positions - Class I tribal member/non-member; Class III (two positions) one non-member and one tribal member.

Class I shall consist of one director who shall be an enrolled member of the Tribe or non-member who is interested in the economic and social development of the Tribe and its membership and who has expertise in the field of energy or related matters. Term ending: 01/01/17

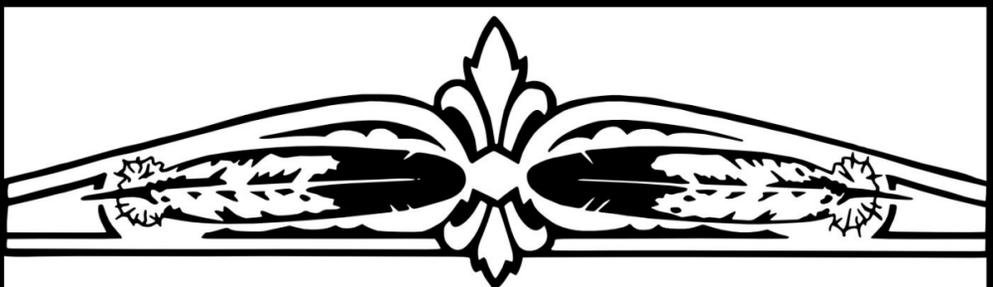

Class III shall consist of two directors, one of whom shall be an enrolled member of the Tribe and one of whom shall be a non-member who is interested in the economic and social development of the Tribe and its membership and who has expertise in the field of energy or related matters. Term Ending: 01/01/16

General Powers. The business and affairs of WSWPE shall be managed and controlled by the Board of Directors.

Regular Meetings. A regular meeting of the Board of Directors shall be held annually on the fourth Thursday in the month of March for the purpose of reviewing the preceding calendar year's operations, and the transaction of such other business as may come before the meeting. At the annual meeting of the Board of Directors, the Board of Directors shall review the preceding year's operations, make plans for the ensuing year's operations, elect officers and transact such other business as may come before the meeting.

Special Meetings. Special meetings of the Board of Directors may be called by the Chair of the Board or any three members of the Board of Directors. Meetings shall be held at the time and place specified by the person or persons calling such meeting.

Olympian Visit from Billy Mills

Billy Mills met with fans at Kah-Nee-Ta last week, ahead of the Museum at Warm Springs Honor Dinner. Mills is an Olympic Gold Medalist, having won in spectacular fashion the 1964 Olympics 10,000 meter race. After sports Mills became a successful motivational speaker, and an inspiring mentor to young people. His appearance at Kah-Nee-Ta drew a standing-room-only crowd. Mills, 75, is Lakota, having grown up on the Pine Ridge Reservation in South Dakota.

Around Indian Country

Puyallup Tribe prevails in IRS taxation dispute

The Puyallup Tribe of Washington has prevailed in a taxation dispute with the Internal Revenue Service.

The IRS issued a levy to the tribe in hopes of garnishing future per capita payments to a tribal member.

The judge in the case, however, said the levy doesn't apply to the payments, which are not "fixed and determinable" and are issued solely at the tribe's discretion.

"A levy may reach a delinquent taxpayer's current balance, but may not reach subsequent deposits to that bank account," Judge Settle wrote in the April decision. "Similarly, a levy may attach to a tribal member's currently authorized per capita payment, but may not reach subsequently authorized per capita payments."

The judge acknowledged he was ruling on a matter of "first impression, meaning it hasn't been settled in the courts.

An appeal by the federal government is likely due to the new issues presented in the case and the potential to impact future tribal per capita disputes.

BIA grants delay in off-reservation casino case

Wisconsin Gov. Scott Walker has been given more time to decide on the Menominee Nation off-reservation casino.

The Bureau of Indian Affairs granted a six-month extension to Walker. He now has until February 19, 2015, to accept or reject the $800 million casino in Kenosha.

The tribe supported the request for the extension in order for Walker to complete a legal and economic analysis of the project.

Let's Talk Diversity Coalition

Training proves a life-changing experience

(To promote cross cultural understanding, the Central Oregon regional health equity coalition, Let's Talk Diversity, is asking community members from different cultures to share their stories about living in Jefferson County including Warm Springs.)

(We begin this series with a community perspective from Sonya Littledeer-Evans, who has worked in Jefferson County for 13 years with the Department of Community Justice-Juvenile Division. She currently resides in Jefferson County, and serves as a Cultural Competency trainer for the Let's Talk Diversity Coalition.)

Sonya Littledeer-Evans recognizes that she is one of many people who historically have not had power in our society: as a woman, a person of color, and a person who grew up in extreme poverty.

Sonya says that growing up she "felt it—differential treatment—but never heard anyone talk about it. I didn't know how to talk about it, and thought it was just in my head."

This all changed when Sonya first attended an intensive Cultural Competency Training of Trainers.

"Cultural Competency trainings were one of the most life-changing events in my life," Sonya says.

"The first thing I learned was that all the differential treatment I had felt and witnessed was real. It was validating and empowering to realize this and discover healthy ways to process it with other people."

These trainings helped Sonya transform her ability to understand the world through all other walks of life.

"It started changing how I did business in my job," she says, "and then it started changing how I did things in my community, in my job representing my agency, and personally too."

Sonya realized she wanted to continue this type of work as a trainer. She was able to do so through cultural competency trainings of the Let's Talk Diversity Coalition.

These trainings help increase cultural understanding, change policy and social norms, and expand the lens in which we all view the world.

During the coalition's community assessment, community members across every racial, ethnic and socioeconomic group repeatedly identified community relations in public places as one area needing improvement.

"Our trainings are a direct answer to what the community said they wanted to see improved," she says.

"The Coalition and its trainings are about creating a safe environment to get together and talk about our differences, and about all the things that make up who we are without blame or judgment."

Sonya adds, "We get to learn from it, to take away from it, and use it in our daily lives, to change how we do our work and interact with each other in our community at every level.

"By the end of the day, across every different walk of life in that room, the community comes together and heals together."

Sonya concludes that only with a better understanding of each other will we have a more unified and stronger community.

If you are interested in finding out more about the coalition please visit the website:

letstalkdiversity.org

Or attend one of our monthly meetings. The next meeting is at 12:30 p.m. on Wednesday, May 7. Call 541-325-5001 ext. 4221.

(Formed in 2008, the Let's Talk Diversity Coalition works toward cultural knowledge and understanding within the Confederated Tribes and Jefferson County.)

Cobell settlement helps to fund scholarships

The Department of the Interior in April transferred the first funds to the Cobell Education Scholarship Fund. This initial transfer was of nearly $580,000 to the American Indian College Fund.

The Scholarship Fund was authorized by the historic Cobell Settlement, approved in 2012, to provide financial assistance through annual scholarships to American Indian and Alaska Native students wishing to pursue post-secondary education and training.

In other a related Cobell settlement item:

The land buy-back program was created to implement the land consolidation component of the settlement, providing $1.9 billion to purchase fractionated interests in trust or restricted land from willing landowners.

Consolidated interests are transferred to tribal government ownership for uses benefiting the reservation community and tribal members.

Interior will contribute up to $60 million from buy-back program sales to the Scholarship Fund, based on a formula in the Cobell Settlement that sets aside a certain amount of funding depending on the value of the fractionated interest sold. These contributions do not reduce the amount that an owner will receive for voluntarily consolidating their interests.

The American Indian College Fund, headquartered in Denver, will administer the Scholarship Fund, and has extensive experience in providing students the resources to succeed in tribal colleges and technical and vocational certifications as well as traditional undergraduate and graduate programs. A five-member board of trustees is responsible for the oversight and supervision of the College Fund's administration of the Scholarship Fund and for developing and adopting a charter outlining its role and responsibilities.

The College Fund is working with the Cobell Board of Trustees to stand up its operation in concert with this first transfer of funds.

More information about the Cobell Scholarship Program and how interested students can apply can be found at the American Indian College Fund website: collegefund.org/Cobell

This first transfer of funds follows recent land purchases from willing sellers at the Pine Ridge and Rosebud Reservations. More than $100 million in purchase offers are currently pending for landowners with fractional interests at Pine Ridge.

Owners must accept and return current purchase offers for fractionated lands on Pine Ridge by May 2, 2014. Landowners can contact their local Fiduciary Trust Officer or call the Trust Beneficiary Call Center at 888-678-6836 with questions about their purchase offers. More information is also available at: doi.gov/buybackprogram/landowners Participation in the Buy-Back Program does not impact a landowner's ability to receive individual settlement payments from the Cobell Settlement.

Hepatitis C virus infection: Are you at risk?

by Lt. Jessie Casberg
Pharmacist, Warm Springs
Health and Wellness Center

Hepatitis C is a virus that can infect the liver and lead to cirrhosis and liver cancer. Hepatitis C is a slow moving disease. It can take anywhere from six months to more than 30 years to cause serious liver problems. Because of this, people who have hepatitis C may not even know they are sick until their liver becomes seriously damaged.

Hepatitis C can affect people at any age, but recently, the Center for Disease Control found that people born between 1945 and 1965 have a higher risk of having hepatitis C.

Hepatitis C is spread in the blood. Any time blood is shared between people, there is a risk of hepatitis C infection. People who share personal items that come in contact with blood, like used lancets (used for testing blood sugar), used syringes, or used razors; people who abuse drugs by injecting or snorting them, and people who get a tattoo or piercing with tools that may not be completely clean may be at risk of having hepatitis C.

The good news is that hepatitis C can be treated and cured. The medications needed to treat hepatitis C are available at the Warm Springs Health and Wellness Center on a case by case basis.

The bad news is that the medications do not work on everyone, and some people may not be able to use them because of other medical problems.

To find out more about hepatitis C, stop by the Warm Springs Health and Wellness Center and ask your provider for more information, or be tested.

Language Bowl 2014

 Over 100 people attended the OIEA conference, held at Kah-Nee-Ta. The day before the conference, the tribes for the first time hosted the Language Bowl, also at the resort.

The Culture and Heritage Department, and Modesta Minthorn from Umatilla, coordinated the 2014 Language Bowl, held in conjunction with the OIEA conference.

There were close to 90 people in attendance, more than expected, said Val Switzler, director of Culture and Heritage.

The winner this year was the Umatilla team, Weeptes, with team members Aaliyah Dick, Charlotte Barkey and Osias Edmundston.

Second place went to the Warm Springs team, Xwaiyama awinala, with members Keiyanna Yellowman (captain), Greg Arquette and Joseph "Irky" Smith.

Seven teams competed.

Increase proposed for IHS budget

President Obama's proposed fiscal year 2015 budget authority for the Indian Health Service includes a 4.5 percent increase.

The proposed IHS budget appropriation request for fiscal year 2015 is $4.6 billion, which represents a $200 million increase over the fiscal year 2014 appropriation.

Tribal consultation is fundamental to the IHS budget process, and the proposed budget incorporates tribal priorities and recommendations.

The budget request supports and expands the provision of health care services and public health programs for American Indians and Alaska Natives. The request includes:

An additional $50 million to help obtain health care from the private sector through the Purchased/Referred Care program (formerly known as the "Contract health services program").

This program allows for the purchase of essential health care services that the IHS and tribes do not provide in their local facilities.

An additional $71 million to support staffing and operating costs at four new and expanded facilities.

An additional $30 million to fully fund the estimated amount of contract support costs for new and expanded contracts and compacts in fiscal year 2015.

This will help tribes cover the cost of administrative functions for compacts or contracts established under the authority of the Indian Self-Determination and Education Assistance Act.

An additional $31 million to address medical inflation costs.

Additional funding to pay costs for new tribes and restoration of reductions in the fiscal year 2014 operating plan.

Funding was also included to complete construction on three health care facilities: the Kayenta Health Center in Kayenta, Ariz.; the Northern California Youth Regional Treatment Center in Davis, Calif.; and the Ft. Yuma Health Center in Winterhaven, Calif. Funding is also proposed to continue construction on one facility, the Gila River Southeast Health Center in Chandler, Ariz.

If the proposed budget is enacted, the IHS discretionary budget will have increased 38 percent since fiscal year 2008.

The IHS fiscal year 2015 proposed budget is available online at: ihs.gov

The IHS, an agency in the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, provides a comprehensive health service delivery system for approximately 2.2 million American Indians and Alaska Natives who are members of federally recognized tribes.

Great Futures Start Here coming up soon

The Warm Springs Boys and Girls Club Annual Fundraiser is coming up in a little over a week. The Great Futures Start Here event is set for Saturday, April 26 at Kah-Nee-Ta.

The golf scramble tees off at 10 a.m. on April 26 at the Kah-Nee-Ta golf course. All proceeds go to the Warm Springs Boys and Girls Club.

Donations are tax deductible. Cost is $75 per person or $280 for a foursome. This includes green and cart fees, KPs, long drive and long putt. A hole in one can put you in a new vehicle.

For information call club director June Smith at 541-553-2323; or email: jsmith@bgcso.org

'Great Futures'

Great Futures Start Here is the club's Fifth Annual fundraising event.

Besides the golf scramble, there will be the silent and live auctions, entertainment and dinner at the resort.

The Warm Springs Club is now managed by the Warm Springs Boys and Girls Clubs of Snohomish County. Grants also assist with keeping the Boys and Girls Club open, along with generous donations and membership fees. The April fundraiser is a critical aspect of funding.

The Warm Springs Boys and Girls Club is open year round after school and during summer break.

The club sees an average of 55 kids a day, and has over 100 members. Contact June Smith for information on how to help.

There will be a Pet Clinic on Saturday, May 3, at the old ambulance bay area at the Fire Hall, across from the post office. Shots, $15. License, $5. Spay, neuter vouchers. Cash only.
